Lloyd spoke on the pitfalls of building a house during the Boom. His new home has taken three years to near completion and Lloyd has moved in even though he can't take a shower due to tiling problems in both bathrooms. Small things like roof line incorrect, garage doors below ground level, support pillars at obtuse angles, gaps around windows and a missing water meter are just some of the ninety items listed for correction.

Lloyd's advice: Don't believe what the contract contains, nor what the builder says.

On second thought, buy a ready built house.
